

ELMHURST COLLEGE

neologisms language.

October 29, 1980

Dr. Joshua Lederberg
President
Rockefeller University
New York City, N.y.

Dear Dr. Lederberg,

if language.

Thank you for your flattering request for a copy of my article on new scientific terms. Reprints promised by the editor have not yet arrived, so I am enclosing one of the copies I had run off for my linguistics students.

Have you a particular interest in English neologizing processes? I am presently attempting a monograph on my classification system for such processes, and would enjoy corresponding with anyone else who is fascinated by the subject. (2)

Again, I thank you for your interest, and I hope you will enjoy the article.

Sincerely,

Arthur Lewis Case
Department of English

"Thank you! Mainly from my own culpability for expressions like protoplast, exobiology; transduction (as used in mol. bio!); plasmid; heterogenote I have been a joyful peruser of Flood and Brown.

ELMHURST, ILLINOIS 60126 • (312)279-4100

(2) I suggest also R.R. Thurnham at Elmhurst + E.S. Stegler (Chicago)

Stegler's law of frequency